Think Snow Then Think Spring Awards Banquet

Region Director's Report

By: David Dahl, NC Region Director

Well, we had a good winter going until this past weekend. I hope the rain didn't take away too much of your area's snow and we'll hope for more snow in the near future.

On January 16th and 17th North Central Region had an S & T clinic and SEM at Brule for our ski and toboggan instructors, Senior, Basic and candidate patrollers. We had a total of 85 participants who took advantage of the opportunities to improve their skiing, tobogganing and OEC skills. Thanks to Jim Grundstom and team for putting together an outstanding S&T event on Saturday and Gregory Kerwin and team for an outstanding Trauma Core OEC seminar event on Sunday.

Thanks to Ski Brule's patrol and the hospitality of the Polich family, owners of Ski Brule. There continued support makes a difference. Check out the group photo in this issue - can you identify the person who is not a patroller?

The Region awards' meeting is set for Feb 21st. Be sure to get your nominations to Marcia Locher before that time. Let's see more award nominations from ALL our ski areas this year. This is the best way to say thank you and acknowledge the dedication and hard work of our patrollers. If you have questions about awards, please contact Marcia at 715-341-8943 or rlocher@charter.net.

Feb 20-21st is the Senior evaluation weekend at Indianhead. Good Luck to all candidates.

David Dahl
Region Director

The North Central Region Banquet is April 16-18 at the Waters of Minocqua, and is hosted this year by Section 3. See the registration form in this issue for a listing of events. I look forward to seeing many of you as we end the ski season and look forward to next. Section Chiefs - let's contact our patrol reps and encourage attendance from every patrol this year. There will again be a variety of educational opportunities, including a CPR refresher on Saturday. What a great way to take care of one of our annual requirements while attending a fun and informational meeting. As always, the water park is available for you and your families and downtown Minocqua has lots of shopping and fun things to do as well.

Enjoy the rest of the season and I'll see you at the Banquet!

Tim's Traverse By Tim Zimmerman, editor

Those who do not know me well may come to the conclusion my column topics have a disturbing pattern to them. Those who do know me well are still trying to decide.

This edition's wee adventure into the Nether-regions of my world begins, and I dare say ends, quite innocently enough.

It was a Saturday morning at the belated start of ski season.

I have two assignments for the day. 1. Help our daughter bake two pans of brownies she needs for her church Christmas program on Sunday. 2. Have a detailed discussion about the birds and the bees with our teenage son while we prepping and waxing the virgin bases of his new skis, after which he will spend the day at our local ski hill.

Believe it or not, this column is all about assignment number one. Assignment number two, which came to me as the result of a romantic teenage interlude witnessed by my lovely bride of 23 years, it is the story of the brownies that is the topic for today.

The afore-mentioned bride is summounded away from our home early in the morning for an appointment. This suits me just fine since I made the best of the previous evening and early stages of this day toasting the snow and/or cold gods who finally allowed the season to open.

As I drift into what I believe to be well earned early morning sleep, I am startled awake by the clanging of bowls and whirring of a mix master.

"Sydney, is that you?"

"Yes Daddy, it is me."

"Are you making brownies?"

"Yes, I know how. I have the oven on 350."

"But it is only 6:30."

"Yep."

At this I am immediately and fully conscious knowing full well that a major error in the kitchen will not sit well on top of some of the toasts I offered the evening before.

"Mommy said you have to talk to Bryce when you wax his skis. I think he is in trouble. I want to get the brownies done before he is all mad."

After a quick inspection to make certain everything is under control I tell Sydney she may load the baking pans, but not to open the oven until I am out of the shower. In retrospect I am not certain why I decide to hit the shower at this point, but it is the decision I make.

Just as I am about to hop in, I hear,

"Daddy, I need you."

I quickly pull a pair of pajama pants over my naked being and run back to the kitchen expecting the worse.

Fortunately it is Sydney working on the brownies and not her older brother. Everything is in control.

"What is the problem Syd?"

"These pans are stuck together. Can you pull them apart?"

She is so cute standing there in her Hello Kitty pajamas holding up the baking pans that I smile as I say, "Sure Syd, Daddy can help you."

I begin to pull them apart.

"Oh Daddy, you are so strong."

In that instance, I take back all the toasts I made the night before because in this house, to this little girl, I am looking pretty large at present.

The pans begin to pull apart only to lock together again on the opposite side. I smile at Sydney with a confident look of a Daddy about to impress his little girl.

I shift the pans so I can hold the freed ends between my knees. I give the locked end a firm and forceful tug. In a millisecond, the entire dual pan assembly slips up to my crotch and as the locked ends begin to separate they pull an amazing amount of what, in an effort to remain uncensored, I shall call "baggage skin" (from the right-most bag) between the two pans.

There I stand with two interlocked pans swinging from my crotch. I am doubled over, barely able to remain standing.

“Daddy, that looks like it hurts.”

“Yes, it does.”

As I try to pry the pans apart in an effort to free myself from the lobster-like grip, the pans squeeze even tighter together.

At this, several of the previous evening's toasts begin to bead up on my forehead. Finally after a strange struggling dance, I am able to remove the pincher from my thin pajama-pants-covered groin region.

The remainder of the brownie baking project comes off smoothly.

The delicate discussion with my son while waxing his new skis some time later is made easier because of the ice pack I have shoved down my pants.

Meanwhile it is now February and it is still painful for me to make right-hand turns down the fall line.

I do not care how early the ski season begins nor how much snow we have. There will be no toasts the night before the season opens next year.

Section One Report by Jim Meunier

Ski season arrived on time this year! We had good snowmaking conditions and plenty of natural snow to help get the ski season off to a great start. Ski areas in the section opened on schedule and had very good skiing conditions over the holidays! The ski areas were busy over the holidays, but total numbers still seemed to be down a little in our area this year.

The biggest change this year is that Blackjack and Big Powderhorn were both sold this fall, and are under new management. The management of both ski areas plan changes. Big Powderhorn offered night skiing every night over the holidays, and also plan to have night skiing on Saturdays the remainder of the season. Blackjack is talking about adding glade skiing, night skiing and a tubing park. They have also increased marketing efforts, and have reopened the restaurant in the evenings and are again having live bands in the bar on weekend afternoons.

Our terrain parks are also changing, with the half pipes being removed and a wide variety of jumps and other features being added.

Senior evaluations will be hosted by Indianhead mountain/patrol this year over the weekend of February 20, 2010. Helpers are needed on Saturday for the OEC evaluations. Both injured guest to simulate injuries, and trained helpers (basic level patrollers) are needed. This is an opportunity to help out, and at the same time refresh your own OEC skills, and learn more about the senior level evaluations. Contact Chris Dobrinski, Chris@cdasc.com if you may be interested in helping out.

Seems like the season just started, but it is already time to start thinking about nominating some of your fellow patrollers for a well deserved award. Unfortunately some patrollers are not being recognized for awards, simply because they are never nominated. Award nominations are due Feb. 7, 2010. I would be more than happy to help anyone interested to nominate an individual or patrol in one of the several award categories. Being able to successfully nominate someone for an award is very gratifying, and I challenge everyone to try it! Awards will be given at the spring awards banquet on April 18, 2010 at the Water's of Minocqua.

Through the wonder of publishing deadlines, the Best Clinic Ever is tomorrow, it will be a bit past by the time you read this. I hope that I will see (saw) many of you there. I am confident that a fun, educational time was had by all. If you were not there, why not? I realize that you all have a life outside of ski patrol (my wife occasionally wonders about this), but this clinic is a can't miss opportunity to improve your skills and have a great time with other patrollers and enjoy the slopes and hospitality at Ski Brule.

Patrol training is also in full swing at this time, with many candidates participating at several ski areas. Best wishes to all on their training.

As someone who has been doing this for more than a couple of years, I want to encourage all of you to get more involved with the patrol. There are many opportunities to show off your skills and talents, maybe even improve them. One selfish reason I instruct is that it helps keep my own skills sharp. If you already participate at the patrol level, and we all do in varying degrees, consider helping out at the section, region, or division level. Extra hands are always welcome at region and division events, even if it is just to watch and see what a program is about.

Contact the person listed in the calendar for the event you are looking at and they will be happy to give you a task for that event, even if it is just tagging along.

Also, go to the region banquet in Minocqua in April, there are many educational seminars and the banquet is always a good time, you might even come home with a pretty nice door prize.

Section Four Report by Keith Robinson

After a slow start to the ski season do to a warm November, it is shaping up nicely now. Things are moving along and the ski areas are fully open, even with a nice warm spell in January. Bruce Mound has there new chair lift up and running as well this year. We just completed the Region ski event at Ski Brule and had excellent participation from the Section. All had a great time and our infamous Region Director is also a champion midget snow wrestler (you'll have to ask him about that sometime)! We wish all the Basic and Senior candidates well on their journey this season. If any one is thinking of doing the Senior program next year, volunteer to be a patient or a patroller assistant at the Senior eval in February at Indianhead. Let me know if you are interested in participating as helpers are always welcome. Have a great ski season!

Nordic Notes By Betty Adams, Region Nordic Administrator

On Saturday, January 23 eleven Central Division patrollers from Minnesota, Illinois, and Wisconsin gathered at Minocqua Winter Park. We practiced senior classic and skating techniques. One patroller tested for senior. On Sunday warm weather turned to wet snow. At least it looked better than rain. Dan Clausen worked with us to improve our skating skills. On Monday the bitter cold held off so we could enjoy a telemark clinic at Indianhead with Dan Clausen. Bob Moe brought equipment to rent so all patrollers could practice telemarking. From the snow which fell on Sunday there was crud to challenge us. We all enjoyed excellent conditions which included some new snow in the afternoon.

Senior States by Les Robinson, Region Senior Ski and Toboggan Administrator

By now you've read how great it is to be in winter, out patrolling helping people, having fun. That is what we do, now how about taking ourselves to the next level of learning to better prepare ourselves to help others. That is exactly what sixteen of our NC Region patrollers have signed up to do by taking either the senior SEM, S&T or both. This upcoming weekend (which will be past when you read this) is the Brule senior clinic along with all the other great events our region is planning. The senior candidates will be out there picking up tips, learning where they need to improve before the evaluation.

The evaluation is the weekend of February 20-21 at Indian-head Mtn.

If anyone is thinking about taking senior next year this is a good opportunity to see what it is about I'm sure that Greg could use your help on Saturday for the SEM, and you could possibly watch the S&T on Sunday from a distance to see what is expected. If you are interested send Greg Kerwin or me an email that you'd like to help we'll see where we can use you.

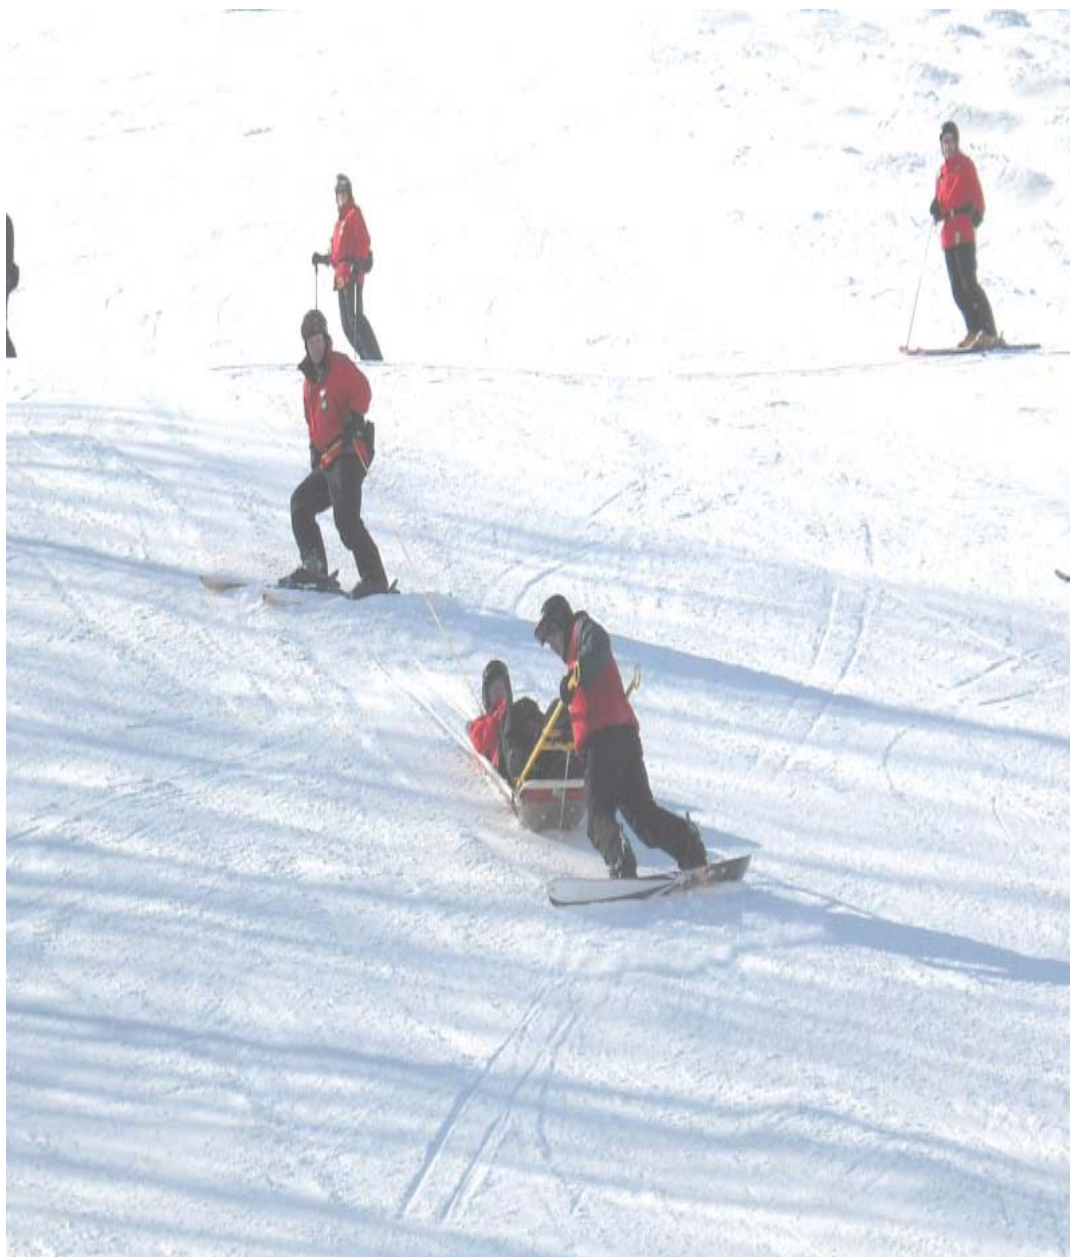

Standing Rocks Patrol Report

By: Conrad Favor, Standing Rocks Patrol Director

Standing Rocks opened in early January, 2010.

It was open for two weeks. We closed January, 23rd due to rain. It poured rain and mist for 24 hrs. or more.

Standing Rocks and some other ski areas in Central Wisconsin seem to be made of solid concrete. The last week of January has been -0 F for several nights.

Awards By Marcia Locher, Region Awards Administrator

A reminder of the awards deadlines. Feb. 21 The electronic voting will be completed.

Feb 7 Awards applications need to be completed, edited and sent to me in electronic format (email) The hard copies need to be signed and in the mail to me. Feb 28 The electronic and the hard copies need to be submitted to Central Division.

April 16- 19 Spring Banquet.

I need time to print the hundred plus service awards. Therefore I need to have all the patrols registered. I like to only submit one order to National. I will be printing the NC roster at the end of January and that will be the list from which I work.

All the needed forms can be found on the National website. A copy of the Central Division awards manual can be found on the central division web site. If you have any questions please call me in the evening, or email me anytime.

recently in Ironwood, MI. The first annual event attracted 400 racers and about 20 event Patrollers.

The all new Sisu Ski Race, a 42K XC marathon was held

The weather was awesome,

the snow fantastic, but Patroller camaraderie is what makes NSP special.
